Instructions to Authors

Manuscript Submission Guidelines:
Articles should be uploaded to Manuscript Central (http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/gerhis).
Book reviews should be uploaded to Manuscript Central (http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/gerhis) or sent to J.Haberlen@warwick.ac.uk.

The Editors will notify authors as soon as possible about the acceptability of a paper, but will not enter into correspondence about papers considered unsuitable for publication. Neither the Editors nor the publisher accept responsibility for the view of authors expressed in their contribution. Authors may not submit to German History a typescript that is under consideration elsewhere. Articles should not normally exceed 10,000 words. Authors of accepted papers should submit an abstract (up to 250 words) for publication with the article.

Typescript layout
All material should be on A4 or quarto paper, in double-spaced typing, and on one side of the page only. Ample margins should be left. Each page of the typescript should be numbered. In Notes and Reviews, all material should be incorporated into the text: there should be no footnotes. Articles, footnotes should be numbered consecutively and placed together in double-spaced typing on a separate page or pages at the end. In Notes and Reviews, the author's name should appear at the end on the right-hand side, with his/her institution on the left. In articles, the author's name and institution should appear at the beginning, immediately under the title. Quotation marks should be single; double quotation marks should be used only to indicate one quotation within another.

Authors are invited to follow the journal's style-sheet, which may be obtained from the journal's web site.

Illustrations
All maps, diagrams, figures and graphs should be submitted in the form of completed artwork suitable for reproduction. They should be separate from the typescript (with a list of captions on a separate sheet), but their place in the test should be marked.

No illustration (including captions) will be given more space than the test area of the journal page, i.e. 191 mm x 112 mm. Figures should ideally be drawn for a reduction of one-third, i.e. 3:2.

All copyright permission must be cleared and if necessary paid for by the author; this includes applications and payments to DACS, ARS and similar licensing agencies where appropriate. Evidence in writing that such permissions have been secured from the rights-holder must be made available to the editor. It is also the author's responsibility to include acknowledgements as stipulated by particular institutions.

Permissions for Illustrations and Figures
Permission to reproduce copyright material, for print and online publication in perpetuity, must be cleared and if necessary paid for by the author; this includes applications and payments to DACS, ARS and similar licensing agencies where appropriate. Evidence in writing that such permissions have been secured from the rights-holder must be made available to the editor. It is also the author's responsibility to include acknowledgements as stipulated by particular institutions.

Tables
Tables should be typed on separate sheets. Indicate in the margin of the test where the tables should be placed. All costs for reproducing figures in colour must be met by the author.

References
These should be kept to the minimum. Books are italicized (underlined in typescript), e.g. F. L. Carsten, Princes and Parliaments in Germany (Oxford, 1975). In second and subsequent references to a work, an abbreviated title should be adopted, e.g. Carsten, Princes, p. 72. A reference to an article in a periodical should include (after the author's name and the title of the article and the title of the journal) the volume number (arabic), date in brackets, and relevant page numbers, e.g. 18 (1975), 467–95.

Copyright
It is a condition of publication in GH that authors grant an exclusive licence to the Journal, which is operated on the Journal's behalf of the German History Society by the Publisher. This ensures that requests from third parties to reproduce articles are handled efficiently and consistently and will also allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible. In assigning copyright, authors may use their own material in other publications provided that the Journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication, and Oxford University Press is notified in writing and in advance. It is essential that a completed licence form is handled efficiently and consistently and will also allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible. In assigning copyright, authors may use their own material in other publications provided that the Journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication, and Oxford University Press is notified in writing and in advance. It is essential that a completed licence form is provided for each article.

Alterations to articles
Any amendments or corrections should be sent to the Editors (or Review Editor) as soon as possible after any author receives notification of acceptance for publication of his/her article. Because of the high cost of corrections, the Editors reserve the right to reject alterations in proof. To avoid delays in the production of the journal, contributors will be asked to return their proofs promptly. Proofs are not sent to authors of reviews.

Author Self-Archiving/Public Access policy
For information about this journal's policy, please visit our Author Self-Archiving policy page: http://www.oxfordjournals.org/access_purchase/self-archiving_policies.html.

Offprints
The corresponding author will be sent a free-access URL to the online article once it is published in Advance Access. In addition, the corresponding author also has the opportunity to order offprints or copies of the printed issue in which the article will appear. To do so, please complete the Offprint Order Form and return it to Oxford University Press.
